

“Hope” is the thing with feathers -
That perches in the soul -
And sings the tune without the words -
And never stops - at all -

And sweetest - in the Gale - is heard -
And sore must be the storm -
That could bash that little Bird
That kept so many warm -

I’ve heard it in the chillest land -
And on the strangest Sea -
Yet never have I heard it ask,
For even a crumb off me.

What might hope look like?

- In the poem, Emily Dickinson thinks Hope is a bird
(a metaphor for hope)
- It perches in the soul and never stops singing (hope lives inside all of us)
- Even in a storm (hard times) the bird keeps singing (there is always hope)
- She ends the poem by saying that it never asks for anything in return (personification)

What might that bird of hope look like?

Hope

Death

Justice

Greed
